

SUPERVISORS IN SOLEBURY AGAIN BEFORE THE COURT

Col. Geo. Van Orden Files
Complaint That Hauling
Bill Was Over Rate

NO CONTRACT MADE

Affidavit Shows How Bids Ranged; Is Gone Over
Thoroughly

DOYLESTOWN, May 12.—Following the filing of a bill of complaint by Colonel George Van Orden, of Solebury township, against William L.
Ely, Silas M. Heath and Harry Vasey, supervisors of Solebury township, Judge Hiram H. Keller has granted a preliminary injunction that holds up for the present, payment of bills for hauling stone in that township.

The plaintiff produced the necessary bond and the court issued the preliminary injunction pursuant to the prayer of the bill, restraining and enjoining the supervisors from signing an order for the payment of the bill of John Major in excess of 50 cents a ton for hauling stone from Lambertville and 60 cents a ton for hauling stone from Moore's Station.

Judge Keller fixed Wednesday, May 14, at 10 a. m., as the time of the hearing in the case when testimony will be produced on both sides.

According to the affidavit of R.
Moore Price, of New Hope, secretary and treasurer of Solebury township, he was authorized at a meeting of the board of supervisors on January 11, this year, to advertise for bids for hauling stone. Sealed bids were to be addressed by registered mail to the secretary or delivered at the meeting to be held at Solebury school, Saturday, January 18.

According to Mr. Price's affidavit, bids were received as follows:
John Major: From Moore Station, 60 cents; from Lambertville, 50 cents;
from Point Pleasant, 65 cents.

Walter Livezey: From Moore Station, 60 cents; from Lambertville, 50 cents; from Point Pleasant, 60 cents.

A. H. Fell: From Point Pleasant, 80 cents.

George Wiley: From Moore Station, 70 cents; from Lambertville, 50 cents;
from Point Pleasant, $1.00.

Clyde M. Davis: From Moore Station, 63 cents; from Lambertville, 40
cents.

Harry G. Wilson: From Moore Station, 58 cents; from Lambertville, 38
cents; from Point Pleasant, 70 cents.

C. H. Ireland: From Moore Station,
60 cents; from Lambertville, 50 cents;
from Point Pleasant, 60 cents.

At the meeting, Silas M. Heath moved that the bids be closed. No contract was awarded at the meeting or at any subsequent meeting.

"Notwithstanding the receipt of the bids," Mr. Price's affidavit avers, "John Major has been engaged by William L. Ely to haul from Moore Station to Lambertville to State Reward Work No. 290, and it is for the hauling of stone on this work that the bill was presented and listed in the true sheet of William L. Ely at the rate of 65 cents for the hauling from Lambertville and 85 cents for the hauling from Moore Station."

"The said charges are 15 cents per ton in excess of the bid for hauling from Lambertville, and 25 cents per ton in excess of the bid for hauling from Moore station."

It is further alleged that at a regular meeting of the board of supervisors on May 3, this year, the time sheet of William L. Ely, acting as roadmaster, for work performed on State Reward Work No. 290, an item of hauling stone by John Major appeared for the sum of $515.02.

The amount was computed, Mr.
Price's affidavit further avers, at the rate of 65 cents per ton for hauling

CIVIC PRIDE CALLS

Bristol Citizens Publicity Committee for Joseph R.
Grundy for United States Senator Issues Statement
So As to Better Acquaint the Voters of Bristol With The Importance of Marking Their Ballots for Joseph R. Grundy, A Fellow-Townsmen, for United States Senator, at the Republican Primary Election, May 20

CLIFFORD L. ANDERSON
CHAIRMAN

THOMAS SCOTT
SECRETARY

It is seldom that a town the size of Bristol is permitted to enjoy the great honor of having one of its citizens nominated to fill the high position of United States Senator. When such an opportunity comes, and the one who is selected is unquestionably qualified and capable to occupy a leading position in that body, it should naturally follow that every citizen should experience a keen sense of civic pride and satisfaction in the honor which such a selection confers upon the town.

Civic pride is a valuable asset to every community. It is founded upon love for the town in which we live. It is broad-minded and unselfish, and has an outlook which is unham-pered by any personal impairment. It exhibits duty and fairness in its efforts for the town's development and puts citizenship above everything else, while at the same time it discounts all those things that would lead to discontent and unhappiness.

If there ever was a time in the history of Bristol when the opportunity was imminent for the citizens to show their civic pride, that time is the present. With its most distinguished citizen as a candidate for the office of United States Senator, a position which he has filled under appointment by the Governor of Pennsylvania, with great ability and dignity, the citizenry of Bristol should exhibit a spirit of civic pride, and give him their united support, as an evidence of their appreciation of the honor which the town will acquire by reason of his election.

There have been factional differences in Bristol in days gone by, but it can be said to the undying credit of the community that whenever a Bristol man had come out for a higher office, beyond and above the gift of his own community, and had appealed to the electorate of his home town, the voters, actuated by a loyal spirit of civic pride, have always risen above petty spites and jealousies, and given their united support.

How much more, then, should we, the voters of today, with this greatest of opportunities within our grasp, when a distinguished citizen is a candidate for the high office of United States Senator, exhibit that same spirit of civic pride which was such a pronounced characteristic of our predecessors, and give him our united support. It is not an exaggeration to say there is not a town in Pennsylvania, the size of Bristol, that would not esteem it the very highest honor to have one of its distinguished citizens elevated to such a high office. Shall it be said of Bristol in the present conflict, that it failed in its opportunity, was remiss in its duty, and lacking in civic pride?

It has been a great satisfaction to find that our citizens in general are not looking upon the election of Mr. Grundy as a political matter, but in their attitude as well as their indorsement of his candidacy, are showing a community interest and spirit of civic pride, which are most encouraging and commendatory. The unusual display of his portrait in the many homes is an indication that the spirit of civic pride has gripped the hearts of the voters, and that when the ballots are counted on election day, the whole country will know that the little town which is the home of United States Senator Joseph R.
Grundy, has measured up to its full opportunity and duty by giving him its united support.

FILES SUIT AGAINST JENKINS FOR DAMAGES

Marie Vickery, Bristol, Brings
Action Against Cornwells Heights Man

ASKS $25,000 DAMAGES

DOYLESTOWN, May 12.—Claiming that Horace Jenkins, of Cornwells, was negligent when his automobile struck and killed Stephen Marlum on the Bristol pike at Andalusia a year ago last Saturday, Marie Vickery, of Bristol, formerly Marie Marlum, has started a suit for $25,000 damages against Jenkins in the Court of Common Pleas of Bucks County.

The plaintiff alleged that the car driven by Jenkins at the time was of faulty construction, was not in working order and that it was being driven at a reckless and unlawful rate of speed when it struck the car in which Stephen Marlum was riding. The accident happened opposite the Unity Store, Andalusia. Suit was started by Buckman and Buckman, attorneys for the plaintiff.

A praecipe for summons in trespass has also been filed by Joseph Peterson against Horace Jenkins, but no statement of claim has been filed as yet.

Two suits in which damages to the extent of $12,800 are asked have been brought by William Roberts and wife, Josephine Roberts, against Edwin Fainham, growing out of an accident on the Bristol pike near the Penn Valley Lunch Room, Morrisville, on July 14, 1929.

Burtonwood presented the charter, of the troop, James B. Douglass received the registration.

The speaker of the evening, Robert N. Perry, assistant scout executive of the county, was then presented by Deputy Commissioner Burtonwood.
Mr. Perry gave a very interesting and inspiring talk on scouting; what it is and what it means to the boys. He urged the various institutions sponsoring the troops to give them loyal support and also pleaded for the same from the community at large.

Poster Prize Winner Receives Prize While in Hospital

Floyd Snider, winner of second prize in the Boys' Week poster contest, was visited on Saturday by one of the men in charge of the week's events at the private hospital of Dr. J. Fred Wagner, and presented with his prize, $7.50.

The lad recently underwent an operation for appendicitis, and thus was forced to miss some of the jolly times of the period. However, his efforts for some time before the poster contest proved of great avail, and Saturday was made a pleasant day even though he was forced to stay a bed.

Bristol's sixth consecutive annual Boys' Week ended Saturday afternoon at 6.30 amid a blaze of triumph for the sixth ward boys. It was a day of honors for the sixth ward lads who won the track and field meet by the score of 62 to 21. The sixth ward constants beat their former record of 54 points scored last year and which gave them the first leg upon the handsome silver loving cup. The sixth ward name will be inscribed for the second time upon the cup. This gives the 1930 winners one leg more of the cup than their nearest rival, the fourth ward. Permanent ownership means three consecutive winnings.

As an introductory to the track and field meet there was a parade of the boys of the six wards of Bristol, Edgely and Croydon. It was a more attractive turn out than any of its predecessors. Many of the ward leaders had their youngsters garbed with varied colored hats and sashes which gave a touch of color to the marchers.

Another feature of this year's parade was the third ward harmonica band of 29 pieces which made its initial appearance in a line of parade.

The Boy Scouts of Bristol and the two suburbs participating marched as a body this year and fell in line behind a float from Camp Buccoo.

Troops 1, 2, 5, 6 and Croydon No. 1 were represented.

The float depicted the activities at Camp Buccoo and represented the five camps as follows: Indian, Daniel Boone Stockade, Cub Camp, Regular Scout Camp, Life Saving Corps. The scouts upon the float came from various sections of Bucks County. The Buccoo band led the division, which marched under the leadership of Joseph Burtonwood, Deputy Commissioner.

Boys from the Fourth Ward were adjudged the best appearing. They were colored hats and sashes and their group of athletes wore white duck trousers with white sweat shirts with the numeral 4th in green.

The line comprised the following:
Walter F. Leedom, marshal.

Walter Cadwallader, age six, dressed as cowboy.

Superintendent of Public Safety,
James L. McGee and Chief of Police Linford Jones headed a detail of four police officers.

Legion Bugle Corps.

Boys from Edgely were next and carried the banner, "Baseball Champions 1930."

Then came boys from the second, third and fourth wards with the Third Ward Harmonica Band, the Legion
Cadets' band furnishing the music.

At the head of the fifth ward procession there were the five lanners which this ward has won for five consecutive years for having the largest number of boys in line. They were followed by St. Francis Industrial School Band and then the Sixth Ward.

The Boy Scouts were at the end of the parade with their float.

There were 922 boys parading divided as follows:

First ward, 195; Edgely, 58; second ward, 94; third ward, 42; fourth ward, 163; fifth ward, 255; sixth ward, 180; Croydon, 19.

Only one accident occurred and that is thought to have been of a minor nature. Anna Junod, Trenton avenue, stepped in front of a lad who was putting the shot. The weight struck her below the right shoulder. She suffered a bruise.

The water served the boys as they marched along Buckley street was much appreciated.

BRISTOL WOMAN GOES ON TRIAL CHARGED WITH MURDERING A MAN

DOYLESTOWN, May 12.—A Bristol woman, Louise Mazzeli, 36, of 1904 Trenton avenue, went on trial this morning before Judge Keller, charged with the murder of Giuseppe DeLissio, 34, of 1112 Wood street. DeLissio died in the Harrison Hospital, Bristol, early on the morning of February 14.

The jury was drawn and the twelve were selected without much difficulty. In the opinion of those in court it was the first time for many years that the first man to be selected was acceptable to both sides.

There are two Bristol men on the jury. Two women will sit in judgment with the ten men.

The entire panel is as follows:
Raymond Bunting, Morrisville; Joseph Keers, Bristol; Wilbur K. Fretz, Bedminster; L. J. Kepler, Trumbauersville;

PROFESSORS AND TARIFF

Objections of a thousand college professor economists to the tariff measure as it stands will not be taken seriously by either Congress or the public. No tariff act drafted in accord with the American principle of protection of home industry in its home market would meet with the approval of the "doctors" and "professors." They never have seen eye to eye on this matter with the engineers of the nation's great industrial enterprises or with wage-earning masses.

High tariff does mean higher prices for commodities, to be sure, but it also means higher wages and more regular pay envelopes, greater purchasing power, and experience has shown us that the high tariff periods are far better times. A poor substitute for these are a low tariff and foreign competition, low prices and low wages, and sometimes no business and no wages.

Not even the most sanguine expect President Hoover to veto the Hawley-Smoot bill if it is passed by Congress, although it carries drastic increases as opposed to slight modification proposed by him, and by affixing his signature he will have the backing of millions of workers and business men who see a cause and effect relationship between the present business depression and the prolonged uncertainty in tariff legislation.

MEDICINE MEN

The medicine men of vanishing Indian tribes left behind them a reputation for quackery and mummery. Scoffing whites have always considered them fakirs rather than physicians.

Who is the iconoclast then when a botanical chemist appears to charge that this general judgment errs on the side of severity? He states as a fact that Indian medicine men really knew a good deal about native medicinal plants and could readily have passed a modern state pharmaceutical examination.

The Indian knew the medicinal value of nearly every useful herb on the continent, snake root, rhatany, sarsaparilla, blue flag and so on. And though we are accustomed to think of the red men as exceptionally robust, they had need of remedies.

Let this rehabilitation and defense of the full-fledged Indian medicine man not be taken to cover the medicine shows that came later, offering to the ailing white man the "remarkable remedies and secrets" of the aborigines. They took over a few Indian formulas, such as snake oil for rheumatism and all of the conjuring tricks of the trade. But while their Indian herb tonics may have had no medicinal value, their shows brought entertainment to small-town folks, who, after all were more in need of entertainment than of medicine.

The old-fashioned fellow who coasted down hill with his feet on the handle-bars left a boy who has just signed with an air circus for the fairs.

Another thing a young father learns is that when he asks Junior how to divide three apples among seven people, Junior says he doesn't know, instead of making a bright crack, as in the joke columns.

'ISLE OF ESCAPE'

Copyright 1929, Warner Bros. Pictures Inc.

Based on the Warner Bros. motion picture and the novel by Jack McLaren of the same title.

SYNOPSIS
Having fled from New Guinea, where he was robbed by O'Shane, David Wade and Stella Blackney, wife in name only to O'Shane, who is to claim his rights on the death of the girl's mother, sail to the South Sea island of Motogaru and begin trading with the natives. Stella quickly comes to fear that Moira, a half-caste girl of the island, will win Wade, whom she has come to love, away from her if she learns they are not married. She is very much upset when Moira's dying father asks them to look after his daughter, but they agree to carry out his wish.

CHAPTER X—Continued

"I know! I know!" she cried, suddenly a little distracted.

"Well, then, why do you hesitate?"

He leaned across the table to her, a movement which had in it a hint of accusation.

"I have a feeling, Stella," he added slowly, "that you don't like her."

"And I have a feeling that you do!" she shot back. "At any rate you are very concerned for her." "Naturally! As far as Moira is concerned, you promised for both of us." There was an unwonted sharpness in his blue eyes.

"I thought you would have welcomed this opportunity for the companionship of another woman."

"I don't think I ever have been so glad."

Though she is a half-caste, you must admit she is no ordinary half-caste. Have you anything against her?"

"I don't like the idea of anyone else living here, David," said Stella. "This is our house, yours and mine. You can understand that, can't you?"

"Women are strange creatures! I'm amazed if I understand you at all! Your changeableness beats me. Remember how, when we first came to this island, you declared that you loved it? And how, an hour or two later, before you had been ashore even, you said you hated it? And now this! With all your heart, apparently, you promised Moira to look after his daughter—a sacred promise, mind you, made to a dying man—and here you are wanting to go back on it! It is all very extraordinary, I must say!"

Assuming a dignity she scarcely felt, Stella rose.

"If you are going to talk like that, I have nothing more to say," she said evenly, and went to the doorway, to go out on to the veranda and along to her room.

"And still we haven't settled the question of where Moira is to live," said David.

She did not turn.

"Just do whatever you wish," she said in the same even and dignified tone, and left him.

In her room, she cast herself on the bed, face down, her head upon her arms. The rain was swishing the roof again like a pattering of innumerable small feet. A complexity of emotion surged over her, like a breaking sea.

A quiet footstep sounded on the mats of the floor. She thought it was David, and made no sign that she had heard. Then she felt an arm about her, and the voice of Lo-oru came comforting.

"Not cry, sinabada! Please not cry!"

Stella turned and sat up. "I am not crying. I have nothing to cry for."

A sudden feeling of shame that the native should have discovered her distress had come to her. She felt that her trouble was her own; that certainly it had nothing to do with anyone else—particularly a little half-caste as this.

"You will be good friends with him again soon," said Lo-oru gently. "Always is it the way with men and women. Manna and me—often we have row, big row, call one another names, because we are angry. But by and by the anger goes, and we are good friends again, and we come sorry we said the names, and he says plenty how much he likes me, and I say plenty

BENSALEM RUN SHORT OF VICTORY OVER BRISTOL

Tallying seven runs in the last inning, the Bensalem Township High School fell one run short of Bristol High School's total, in a loosely played contest Friday afternoon at Bensalem. The final score was 13-12.

Going into the last inning the score stood 13-5 in favor of Bristol. Then the Bensalemites got going and six errors committed by the Bristol players helped to count seven runs where a goose egg should have been chalked up.

In all, the Cardinal and Gray players made seven mis-slips. Four of these were made by outfielders. Gaffney, a usually dependable fly-chaser, had two after his name. Lafferty and DiLorenzo had the others.

J. Stallone and Lafferty led in batting with three hits each. Shibe led the losers with the bludgeon gathering four hits. Dean and Strump led the fielding honors.

The victory was the third straight for Bristol, who have not given up their hope of capturing the Lower Bucks County League gonfalon.

Supervisors in Solebury Again Before the Court

from Lambertville and 85 cents per ton for the hauling from Moore station or the Delaware River quarry.

At this meeting Harry Vasey, a member of the board, refused to approve the expenditure to John Major at a rate in excess of his bid and the same position was taken by the affiant. William L. Ely insisted that all of the items appearing on the time sheet be paid in full and refused to sanction or approve any part of the time sheet unless the claim of John Major was paid in full.

The bill was presented by William L. Ely and objected to by C. J. Koller, a taxpayer, who was present at the meeting. Silas M. Heath, one of the supervisors, at first signed his name in approval of the items on the time sheet, but at once disapproved the same when it was called to his attention that it was in excess of the bid, and erased his name. No further action was taken at that meeting.

Mr. Price further states that he was present at a meeting on May 6 at the call of the chairman of the board of supervisors, Harry Vasey, at which time the matter was further considered. The meeting adjourned after Mr. Price had been granted the right to confer with his attorney before further action was taken on the payment of the bill.

"I have been informed," the affidavit sets forth in the last paragraph, "by William L. Ely, in company with John Major, Silas M. Heath and Daniel Hendricks, the constable of Solebury township, in the afternoon of May 7, that they had attempted to hold a meeting, and that I had been removed as secretary. I had been given no notice that the matter of my removal would be considered and no legal meeting was held."

A Distinctive English Cottage

House No. 602

As taste in architecture becomes more discriminating in this country, a greater variety of houses is being developed. Small houses that are attractive and distinctive are in vogue.

The English Cottage illustrated here is typical of the newer designs. Every effort has been made to keep it simple. And yet its pleasing proportions, the placing of windows, the skillful handling of the brickwork, all contribute to make the house charming.

Face brick, because of the charm in color and texture it possesses, has been chosen for the exterior wall construction. In this way, a range of color is gained that sets off the pleasing patterns that have been designed at the corners and in the steep gables.

This plan is adaptable for either a city or country site, as all rooms have exposure to the front or rear. It may be placed on either a narrow or shallow lot. The rooms have been placed to reduce to a minimum the number of steps necessary for the operation of the household. Both front and rear doors and stairs are conveniently near the kitchen, or each other, and just a step from the living room. The basement stairs are so located, with outside door at grade, that an outside basement entrance is unnecessary.

Entering at the side, under ample shelter, one finds a good-sized stair hall, off which is the coat closet. The unusually large living room occupies the entire front portion of the house. The attractive bay and the fireplace opposite are features not usually found in houses of this size. The dining room opens from the living room, beyond which is the porch at the rear for those who like the view of their garden. The kitchen, though directly connected with the dining room, is well isolated, has good light over the sink, and is equipped with cabinets instead of pantry. Note the convenience of the rear entrance.

The basement is the full size of the house and contains a laundry, heater and fuel rooms, vegetable cellar, and storage space. The first floor ceiling height is 9 feet, the second floor 8 feet, and the content is 25,000 cubic feet.

If you are interested in working drawings for House No. 602, the editor of this paper will gladly tell you where they may be obtained.
